Vineyard

New season starts again with the pruning of the grape vines and shaping them up for the next season's harvest. This is where the eternal optimism of every farmer gets high hopes for the next season. Plowing and mounding of the soil over the graft union is tedious work, but necessary for healthy survival of the grape vines. At pruning time, when you are in the middle of the vineyard and you see a deer stroll by you're looking at the wild game with a different heart. At this time they cannot steal your crop or damage the grape vine so you see the beauty and elegance rather than the competition for the crop.

Sand Castle Building

The inside of the building is painted and after a few minor adjustments on the columns fire protection we finally will get the occupancy permit and start moving inside the building. Unfortunately with many contractors' delays we have missed the parties of the Christmas season but we thank you all for making your holiday orders with Sand Castle by either stopping in or through the internet

Comments from Stephanie

Happy Holidays! 'Tis the season for joy, thanksgiving and spending time with beloved family and friends. A wonderful addition to your family gatherings would be our signature Alpine Spice wine. Heat it to the temperature of coffee and let the aroma fill the room. A perfect compliment to a cold day. Keep us in mind for your last minute holiday presents and hostess gifts. We will be open Christmas eve until 5 pm.
